'Railroading' of New Sewer Fee Charged

By FRANK LaPIERRE

There is mounting criticism in Daly City today over what some have labeled "railroading" of a new sewer service charge which could add $36 more a year to a homeowner's tax bill.

The charges include alleged unresponsiveness of the three-member North San Mateo County Sanitation District's Board of Directors to the community's needs.

Among the questions asked of the board during a public hearing on the issue, held May 20, at the Westlake Community Clubhouse in Daly City, was why the hearing was held at 1 p.m., rather than after normal work hours when more people could attend?

Daly City Mayor and District Chairman McRobert Stewart responded that 1 p.m. was the "usual time we hld our meetings."

Another person questioned why the board wanted to hear from the some 350 persons at the meeting after they already had unanimously passed a resolution on the matter at an earlier session?

District Counsel Jim Morton explained that the contents of the resolution could be amended after the public hearing was closed, and before the board took its final action in early June.

Repercussions of the hearing still are reverberating through the city.

Many property owners think the rates are not equitable and that the project itself — estimated at $6 million — is too ambitious.

This modernization project which will include expansion of the existing plant to bring it up to new rigid State Water Quality control standards, also encompasses addition of a reclamation facility.

The reclaimed wastewater could one day be sold to nearby parks, golf courses and cemeteries, engineers that have studied the project over the years have pointed out.

Such sales could have a beneficial effect on reduction of sanitation district taxes, proponents of the plan feel.

An Analysis

Such a plan first was explained in detail in a report submitted by Kirker, Chapman & Associates, and Jenks and Adamson engineering firms in May, 1971.

At that time the board was composed of former Mayor Francis P. Pacelli, County Supervisor James V. Fitzger- ald, and former Councilman Bernard J. Lycett.

Manager of the district was Robert V. Bernicchi.

Since that report was made, Bernicchi has been replaced as manager by David Gehre. However, he still is retained as a consultant to the district.

"Bernicchi is perhaps the best sanitation engineer in the state," Stewart has said.

The former-manager-now-consultant, formed his own company.— Resources Engineering & Management Consulting Engineers of South San Francisco — with Armen A. Anooshian.

After months of study the firm, in February, 1974, came up with a detailed report confirming the findings of Kirker, Chapman & Associa es.

In both reports it was explained how reclaimed water could be sold to local users — not for human consumption.

San Francisco has been pouring millions of gallons of treated sewage daily on Golden Gate Park since the 1930s. Even with their proposed $640 million expansion program, San Francisco would probably still use reclaimed water at the park.

Contrary to public statements made at the open hearing last week, the plant expansion program and reclaimed water facility is not a recently conceived plan by the district.

It was first unveiled more than a year ago at a luncheon meeting of cemetery owners, parks officials and golf course directors at the Lake Merced Country Club in Daly City.

For months thereafter, Bernicchi and Arnooshian, apparently using guidelines set down by Bill Chapman of Kirker, Chapman & Associates, drafted plans, specifications and a list of potential

PASSING IN REVIEW — The first safety patrol parade and awards ceremony was held May 18 at the Serramonte High School football field with patrol leaders from various Daly City schools participating. On hand to greet the girls and boys was acting Police Chief David Hansen (standing at microphone), Vice Mayor Victor Kyriakis (seated background) and other police and civic officials.

Bullet Kills DC Woman

A Daly City woman died at Mary's Help Hospital Memorial Day from gunshot wounds of the head.

Mrs. Shirlee Smith, 40, of 330 Oliver St., Daly City was shot once in the head with a snub-nosed .38 caliber police special, according to police.

The gun is owned by her security guard husband — a retired U.S. Army enlisted man, police said.

San Mateo County coroner's investigator Steve Horton and Daly City detective Harry Lax said the case was still under investigation.

An autopsy was scheduled to be performed on Mrs. Smith today.

Mrs. Smith had been suffering from terminal cancer for the past 14 months, police said, and was despondent over her health.

She was being treated at Letterman General Hospital and had only recently started taking new medication.

Her husband, Ernest J. Smith, told police his wife was in good spirits throughout the holiday weekend.

Shortly before 6 p.m. Monday she went to the rear sunporch. A short while later, the husband said, he heard a shot and rushed to the porch where he found his wife.

She died about an hour later at the hospital, police said.

'Drastic Cutbacks' Face Daly City Recreation Programs

By FRANK LaPIERRE

The recent decision of the Jefferson Elementary School District not to participate financially in this year's Daly City recreational programs has resulted in some drastic cutbacks, it has been learned.

To date, City Manager David Rowe has ordered 15 school facilities — areas that previously sponsored summer programs for thousands of children of all ages — to be pared from the overall city recreation program.

This, because the JESD voted several months ago not to contribute some $49,000 as its share of the programs' funding.

The programs at these school sites in Daly City included handicrafts and playground activities.

Primarily the JESD money went toward salaries for supervisors at these school areas.

But in recent years the school board displayed an increasing unhappiness over programs being held and claimed they had little say in how these programs were carried out.

"We simply wanted more for our money" one trustee commented, following the board's decision to cut the funding.

Rowe said "normal" city-wide functions, such as league baseball, will continue to be held at these playgrounds.

The city will also curtail maintenance activities at two schools in the district.

In other areas, this year's city budget — which may top $10 million — includes a request from the City Manager that the Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce be funded $21,000 for a full-time manager, an assistant manager and secretary.

There is a $2,000 request to the council for some sort of "American Bicentennial Celebration," apparently to start the ball rolling for celebrations on the nation's 200th birthday in 1976.

While the budget is not expected to skyrocket, and officials are predicting they will come "close to holding the line" on the tax rate, the city has had to budget 11 new positions to cope with the increased population and subsequent support services, the draft budget report discloses.

Department heads had asked for a total of 22 new personnel and Rowe chopped the figure in half.

Included in these positions is the new post of "Fire Department Training officer."

To beef up the proposed Community Development Agency — the new agency responsible directly to Rowe and over the present Planning Department and Redevelopment Agency staffs four new personnel will be hired.

This department will include a director of community development; secretary; assistant planner; and planning intern.

Expenses of this new department will be shared by the Redevelopment Agency Administrative Fund and the city.

Under the city's Affirmative Action program, two new posts have been allocated for "community service trainees."

Actually, these "trainees" will be in the police cadet program.

This year's proposed budget also calls for the hiring of three new police officers.

Three full-time new posts will be added to the city's library system, along with five part-time jobs. The pesonnel are needed to staff the new library opening in the Serramonte area and expanded facilities in other sections of the city.

Maintenance departments within the city will hire two new employees.

Scout Week Proclaimed

McRobert L. Stewart, Mayor of Daly City, has proclaimed this week as "Scout-O-Rama '74 Week".

He urges the citizens of Daly City to attend Scout-O-Rama '74, May 31 and June 1, at the San Mateo County Fairgrounds, to become further acquainted with the activities and accomplishments of the Boy Scouts of America.

Redevelopment Project Committee Role Defined

Frank Spadarella, chairman of the recently-formed Daly City Redevelopment Project Area Committee, said today he is "concerned over misleading and erroneous statements" circulating throughout the city concerning his committee's role in redevelopment.

Spadarella said he is "bewildered" by recent attempts to "sabotage this project" before it has had time to even get started.

There have been reports published, according to Spadarella and Redevelopment Agency officials, that the committee, formed under state redevelopment law to advise the city's Redevelopment Agency on matters within the project area, has the power to annex new areas for redevelopment.

"We have no such powers," Spadarella said. "All we have is the power to advise the agency on matters pertaining to this project — and nothing more.

It was explained by City Manager David Rowe last week at the committee's initial meeting that the redevelopment committee could make any recommendations it deemed appropriate concerning redevelopment.

However, state redevelopment law clearly points out that if the committee — made up entirely of persons within the project area — does recommend annexation of adjoining areas the matter first would come before the city's Redevelopment Agency; be forwarded to the Planning Commission, and come back before the City Council — all at open meetings where public hearings would be held.

"It's simply not a matter of this committee moving in and grabbing anyone's property," said Don Ciucci, redevelopment planner.

There are laws that provide for a majority of landowners in an area to solicit annexation to the Redevelopment Agency.

Again, once the petition is submitted by landowners, it must come before public hearings of the Planning Commission and ultimately make the rounds of the City Council and agency.

Spadarella's committee has only one power — to recommend.

The Daly City restauratuer explains that the merchants on both Junipero Serra Boulevard and Mission Street — two of the city's most depressed business areas — overwhelmingly have endorsed the redevelopment-rehabilitation concept as a means toward revitalizing their areas.

Several merchants serving on the committee said they "cannot understand why some people are stirring the pot already" when they do not know what direction the project will take at this time.

It is unlikely the committee will concern itself with areas outside the business district, is the consensus of committee members contacted.

Sewer Fee Charges

Their thrust was aimed at the large open space in and around Daly City.

They pointed out the water table under the city had plunged some 70 feet in recent years and wells used by the cemeteries and golf courses would soon have to sink their pipes deeper or close them down.

Daly City also uses well water for households, supplementing this with San Francisco's Hetch Hetchy water.

The amount of water bought from San Francisco has been increasing as the city continues to grow, engineers have explained.

San Francisco sells its water to Daly City, and other Peninsula cities, which in turn is bought at retail prices by local consumers.

While reclaimed water would not be as cheap to buy as well water for these large volume consumers, it would be far less expensive than buying Hetch Hetchy waters, engineers proclaim.

And San Francisco might opt to cut off water supplies to "outside" agencies when their own demands exceed supplies.

It can also be expected that San Francisco may hike its rates to users.

But the question as to why Daly City's sanitation board first passed its resolution, kicking off the mammoth project, and then scheduled a public hearing has irritated many civic and business leaders and householders in the community.

The staff of the district was accused of pushing the matter before the board in a slipshod presentation before the public, of setting rates that were not equitable (example: property without a house on it was listed as having to pay $36; example: a home with one bath would be charged the same as a home with three baths, of excluding public and private facilities from paying the special sewer service charge, including the Lake Merced Golf Course and city buildings.

Officials and engineers of the district claim they had little choice in rushing the matter.

The state has imposed water quality rules and Daly City had better follow them or pay a hefty penalty, they explain.

If the district did not act immediately to gain control of the Federal and State monies available, Daly City would likely end up paying 100 per cent of the some $6 million, rather than the 12½ per cent it will cost the city.

Future monies collected under the sewer charge will go toward maintenance and operation of the expanded plant.

This fee, whatever is arrived at, could later be reduced.

There is a precedent for reduction of sanitation fees, it was pointed out.

Several years ago a special rate hike was passed for capital improvements within the district. It was later reduced, records indicate.

Another way the district might save almost a half million dollars in capital outlay funds is by leasing, rather than buying, adjacent city-owned properties, it was learned.

It is anticipated the sanitation plant will expand onto property now occupied by the main fire station. This station may be shifted to an area behind the Daly City Civic Center — property already owned by the city.

City officials have thus far expressed no opposition to the district's "feelers" to lease the Lake Merced Blvd. property.

One official even suggested putting the plant in a cut on the side of the hill and installing tennis courts with trees and shrubs on the roof.

Sewage Overflow Topic

Pacifica Planners Okay Townhome EIR

The problem of sewage overflow in the Crespi area was again the topic of debate at the Pacifica planning Commission meeting May 20; as commissioners discussed and finally certified the Environmental Impact Report (EIR) for the proposed Terra Nova Townhomes No. 5 development.

A public forum on the EIR was held at the April 15 meeting, but the item was continued to allow the applicant time to respond to issues not satisfactorily covered in the original draft.

Challenge Developments has submitted a supplement to the first report, but according to Commissioner Bradford Pringle, some of the information is still not complete.

He asked if the sewer line for the project would tap into that used by Crespi area residents?

Pringle indicated the present line along Crespi now is overloaded, but was reassured by Municipal representatives Les Clark that a separate trunk line would be used.

Ted Cannis, Challenge representative, said that a sewage system study could be worked out theoretically, but that "current flow rates are just not available."

Planning Administrator Jim Miller said the matter has been referred to the public works department, but "staff has received no comment on it."

The EIR supplement states that "no significant health or safety hazards negatively impact the project."

Prior contentions that the present sewage overflow problem in the Crespi area is a health hazard, led Pringle to point out, "What is stated in the supplement is incorrect. The point is that if this project has an impact on the down stream sewage flow, then this is a (definite detrimental) impact."

Referring to a letter from the State Health Department, Commissioner Ellie McGuire said the city should be able to provide information on the rate of sewage flow and to determine if the present system could handle the additional sewage — which would generate from the proposed project.

"I don't think we can do this," she said.

"In light of this letter, is it possible we could be held responsible if we are not able to give this assurance?" she asked.

Deputy City Atty. Bill Galston indicated such matters would be discussed when the project is up for approval.

The staff analysis stated another adverse impact which would result if the project qere completed: That the peak noise levels generated by street traffic would be high enough to warrant complaints from residents of the proposed townhomes.

Pringle asked, "If the noise levsl is sufficient, will there be any additional insolation provided in the homes?"

Cannis replied, "We will be putting up a masonry fence, and will take a look at the decible (count) and see what we can do."

Other adverse impacts outlined by the staff include a 40 per cent reduction of open space, complete removal of existing vegetation, possible land slippage of the fill area, possible flooding of lower San Pedro Creek due to improved drainage, increase of air and water pollution, traffic problems and increased population.

Interpretation Is a Problem

Interpretation problems arose from the new state law limiting the Pacifica Planning Commission to three General Plan amendments a year, and the city attorney was directed May 20 to provide a more specific definition.

According to chairman George Edsell, "We can have as many General Plan amendments as we please, but they will have to be lumped together into two hearings a year, with one (hearing) left for emergencies."

The need for additional information resulted from a request by Challenge Developments for a plan amendment which would change the designation of a 6.43-acre parcel on Terra Nova Boulevard, north of the Park Mall Shopping Center, from a retail commercial to a neighborhood commercial district.

Deputy City Atty. Bill Galston advised the commission that if action were taken on this amendment, it would account for one of the three allowable hearings.

Ten Cannis, a Challenge representative, indicated that he believed the law was limited to the legislative body, or City Council, and that it should not prevent the commission from making a decision and a recommendation to the City Council.

He said it then would be the responsibility of the council as to how they would group the requests in conformance with the law.

Galston said that this aspect of the law would need further research.

To avoid continuing the matter, the commission adopted a resolution by a slim margin, 4-3, to approve the request, make the recommendation to the City Council and await the information.

Planning administrator Jim Miller said the site, proposed for a 54-townhouse development, also is appropriate for neighborhood commercial use, "but there is other property in the immediate area which would support this."

He said Challenge owns two other parcels in the area, 2.86 acres of vacant retail commercial land, and 5.06 acres of vacant office land.

Miller indicated that since these lots have less functional and desirable access than the six-plus acres in question, "it can be concluded that the site requested for change to residential use is more desirable for commercial development."

Commissioner Ken Grobman said, "If the population of the southern part of the city increases by another 20,000, which is likely to happen, this (site) could draw on the area for commercial use."

He indicated that since all three parcels are under one ownership, he would prefer to see one over-all plan for the whole area.

Public Storage Changes Suggested

The Pacifica Planning Commission approved a reclassification request made by Public Storage, Inc., May 20, but strongly suggested the applicant make appropriate changes in the design of the storage warehouse located between Palmetto Avenue and the Coast Highway.

It was noted that the architecture and landscaping of the facility resembled a "barracks-type of structure," and would not be in conformance with the surrounding area.

Commissioner Jim Brush said, "I agree with the use of the land, but I think he (applicant) has an awful lot of work to do with design and landscaping.

"You are sticking out there and we don't need a sore thumb," he said.

Jim Roof, the applicant's representative, said it would be possible to store recreation vehicles on the site, although the primary purpose is to store the personal belongings of apartment dwellers who have no place to put their things.

He said the storage cubicles will range from five by five feet to 10 by 20 feet in area, will have roll-type doors and will be rented on an individual basis.

Roof indicated the facility will be open 24 hours a day, and will be fully fenced for security purposes.

Commissioner Ken Grobman said that the word "barracks" was well used, and indicated that other storage warehouses have been treated with more extensive and careful planning.

"I would rather not see a fence if there were a 20-30-foot grass setback off the street," he said.

Roof said he would work closely with the planning staff on an agreeable plan.

The motion to approve the reclassification of the property from a single-family residential to a controlled manufacturing district was made by Commissioner Bradford Pringle and seconded by Brush.

Commenting on the 5-2 vote, chairman George Edsell said, "We are looking for a great deal more than what you have offered us in the way of architecture and landscaping," indicating that extensive redesign is expected.

Fire Chief Says Read Directions

Convenience, economy and ecology are causing more and more consumers to use manufactured wax/wood firelogs instead of natural firewood. However, comments Calvin Hinton, Chief of Pacifica Fire Department, it is important that consumer read the directions on the manufactured logs because, like all fire products, the logs should be used carefully and they require a break from traditional fireplace habits.

"Many things people do with a real wood fire are either wasteful or dangerous," Chief Hinton says. "Poking at the fire, breaking up a burning log and building too large a fire are the most serious mistakes. These same habits also can create potential danger when manufactured logs are being used."

One of the major causes of difficulty consumers experience with manufactured logs is using more than one log at a time or adding a firelog to an existing fire. Virtually all the nationally distributed brands of firelogs put out as much heat as two or three hardwood logs, and people can cause accidents if they ignite more than one at a time, according to Chief Hinton. Adding a wax/wood log to an existing fire may result in a flare up or an excessively hot fire.

Another mistake firelog users make is poking or breaking apart the log, Chief Hinton says. The firelogs are made of compressed sawdust and wax, and when they are poked, bits of burning wax may stick to the fireplace tools and drip on the carpet. Poking also may break up the log, creating a larger burning surface and resulting in an intense heat flareup.

The logs are designed to burn for two or three hours without special attention, he points out, and the best method of tending such a fire is to sit back, relax and enjoy it.

Most importantly, he emphasizes, follow all the directions on the firelog wrapper. However, Chief Hinton says, for the brands of firelogs which have few instructions consumers should consider the following list of cautions for using any manufactured log.

These directions include:

—Start with an open damper and a clean flue.

—Use the right log for the fireplace — small logs producing lower heat are acceptable for small and free-standing fireplaces.

—Read the manufacturer's instructions, and follow them.

—Place the log at the back of the fireplace, preferably on a grate.

—Don't unwrap the log.

—Don't overload your fireplace.

—Never break up a burning log.

—Don't try to move a burning log — it can break.

—Never add manufactured firelogs to an existing fire. However, a firelog or other fuel may be added to a manufactured firelog fire after two hours.

—Never leave children unattended near fire.

FRIENDS of Lt. Col. Ernest DeSoto, listed as missing in action in Vietnam, and Daly City dignataries gathered last week to remember the veteran and to plant a tree in his honor. (Tom Chergosky Photo)

A Tree for A Veteran

A group of approximately 200 people gathered to honor a local resident, Lt. Col. Ernest DeSoto and 1300 other men, missing in action in Vietnam last week.

The occasion was the planting of a Freedom Tree at Westlake Park in Daly City.

Walter von Tagen, brother-in-law of Lt. Col. DeSoto, acted as master of ceremonies. Colors were presented by Cub Pack No. 182. Mayor Pro-Tem, Victor Kyriakis, gave the ceremonies an emotional impact with his address of the day. Those attending expressed great appreciation of his manner of presentation and subject of his address.

Mrs. Joyce DeSoto then presented the tree, a Eucalyptus ficifolia (Red Flowering Gum) to the City of Daly City. Louis Larcombe, chairman of the Park and Recreation Commission, thanked Mrs. DeSoto and accepted the tree on behalf of the residents of the city and his fellow commission members.

Colonel Robert E. Humpert, Federal Preparedness Liaison Officer, Air Force Reserve, Hamilton Air Force Base, represented the Air Force with remarks in regard to Lt. Col. DeSoto and the other M.I.A.'s.

Father Thomas Rolle of St. Andrew's Church in Daly City gave the dedication prayer, and Dr. Richard Moomjian, a friend of the family, who donated the tree, placed a symbolic shovelful of earth on the tree.

Von Tageno invited those attending to a reception hosted by Mrs. DeSoto in the Westlake Community Center wherein congenial time was had by all.

Attending the ceremonies were Commander Richard Stratton, USN, former P.O.W., Assemblyman Louis Pappan, Councilmen Anthony Giammona and William Schumacher, as well as the families of several of the men missing in action. The tree and its commemorative plaque can be viewed in front of the Westlake Community Center.

Westborough Park

Development Expansion Okayed

The Norpen Development Co. was granted a construction permit for a 42-unit expansion of the Westborough West Park by the South San Francisco Planning Commission May 21, with the stipulation that the investigative report into the problems of existing homes be made available to residents in the area upon its completion.

According to City Planner Neil Martin, the site, adjacent to the intersection of Callan Boulevard and Greendale Drive, is owned by the Catholic Archdiocese.

On approval of the permit request, Norpen would acquire the property from the church.

If the request were denied, however, Norpen representative Henry Richmond said, "As far as I am concerned, it will remain a dirt pile."

Originally, Richmond said the report on alleged drainage problems, would not be available to other home owners in the development, because the matter was in letigation, but recently he said, "If we can sit down with these people without the threat of litigation, we would like to get this settled."

Residents were angry, however, and indicated they wanted something done now. They objected to approval of construction for additional homes until existing homes were made "livable."

One homeowner complained that "every time it rains, I have three or four inches of water in my basement. "These people are just building homes and letting the people go to hell," he said.

Richmond contended this problem has nothing to do with the request.

Drainage goes over the slope, and that a catch basin is located every 100 feet," he said.

"A lot of people have done things to their rear yards which have changed the drainage patterns."

Hugo Antonetti disagreed with Richmond. He said there is a sub-surface water problem on the property, and that he keeps a siphon in his backyard.

"In three years, they have done nothing," he said.

"I have talked to them, and they said, 'pump it out'," he added.

Zoning administrator William Costanzo said that the problem is "out of the scope of the city's power," and that "the State Real Estate Commission is the proper place to go.

"The State Real Estate Commission can revoke their license to sell property. This is not something we can take care of," he said.

Costanzo's suggestion also was brought about by a second complaint lodged by the residents.

Skyline College Librarian Robbed

The head librarian at Skyline College in San Bruno was the victim May 22 of a methodical strong-arm robbery in a college restroom, according to police.

William P. Stanley, police said, was bound hand and foot and gagged by a man who also took the librarian's credit cards and $50 in cash in the 2 p.m. incident.

According to Officer Ron Deghi, who responded to an assault call at the college, the victim had come out of his office and walked down a hallway to the restroom.

Officer Deghi said Stanley told him he had noticed a man following, but initially had given it no thought. That man, identified as the assailant, was later described as a Negro, about 25 years old, "neatly dressed" in a white and red striped shirt and plaid trousers, standing 5-6 and weighing about 160 pounds.

Flood Control Project Explained

Plans for the $11 million Colma Creek Flood Control project were presented at a public information meeting at South San Francisco City Hall last Wednesday night.

The main concerns expressed at the meeting were from property owners in the Spruce Avenue area, who want to know how the project will affect their businesses.

The presentation Wednesday was a preliminary to a full-fledged public hearing which was to be held by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors yesterday. Local officials hope the supervisors will accept the project and set a district bond election at November's general election.

The district includes South San Francisco and Colma, plus parts of northern San Bruno and southern Daly City.

Norman Hanson, project engineer for Wilsey and Ham, told the group $10 million worth of claims have been filed as a result of flooding during the 1972-73 winter season.

The plans have been drawn to handle the worst flooding since 1955 — termed a 50-year flood. The project report includes an alternate $6 million program should the bond issue fail. However, Wilsey and Ham strongly recommend that every attempt should be made to build all the improvements at this time, in order to provide the desired level of flood protection for the entire project area. The project would take three years to complete.

To take care of possible flooding during this coming winter season, the City of South San Francisco will replace the Spruce Avenue bridge before the rest of the flood control project gets going.

The city will be reimbursed by the flood district. Hanson and Vic Sanders, the county flood control officer, discussed aspects of the project with the small group at the hearing.

"I get 75 per cent of my business in the evening from folks on their way home," declared George Radenbaugh, owner of the Good 'n' Rich Dairy, on Spruce Avenue. "That's an awful big bite in my business."

The engineers agreed to cut back a box culvert that they were going to lay from the canal to Victory Avenue, and have it stop just short of the dairy store. It would be installed when the rest of the project begins.

Frank Addiego, director of public services, assured the businessmen he would be receptive to their complaints — although it would take five or six months to restore the Spruce Avenue bridge. Also cut off would be South Canal Street. Addiego promised to consult them on designing detour signs in order not to discourage shoppers.

Wilsey and Ham are drawing up specifications for the Spruce Avenue project in advance of the rest of the project, so that bids could possibly be called for by June 10, and work start by the end of July or first of August — still a little in advance of the rainy season.

The project will also include signals on Mayfair Avenue — long sought by Mayfair Village residents, who complained they could not get out to Spruce Avenue.

It also will correct apparent errors of previous engineers. The former Spruce Avenue canal, culverted and joining the Colma Creek canal by a 90 degree angle, will be redesigned so that it comes in on a slant, eliminating the surge and backup in heavy runoffs. The capacity of the branch canal will be more than doubled.

One property owner asked the project cost to him. He learned the new 40-cent tax already had been added to his tax-bill for the current year, and that he had been paying it.

There was some discussion about the three zone systems, in which property owners whose properties are most subject to flooding pay the highest tax rates.

Sanders said there was no legal mechanism by which a property-owner can change his zone — it would take state legislation. He revealed two major property owners had made such requests — Guy F. Atkinson Co. and Tanforan Shopping Center, in Subzone 2.

Scouts to Display at Fairgrounds

Explorer Posts, the high school age boys and girls of the San Mateo Boy Scout Council, will display their variety of interests at Scout-O-Rama 1974, May 31 and June 1 at the County Fairgrounds.

The entire Community Building on the Fairgrounds will be for the exclusive use of these special interest groups. Other posts will be scattered throughout the Hall of Flowers with the younger packs and troops.

Three aviation, seven law enforcement, three medical including one veterinary medicine, and three sea explorer posts will have large booth displays in their special building.

Older Scouts have a choice of these special interest groups or continuing in leadership rolls with the more traditional units. Many boys do both.

Probing Customs Of Past Decade

This article is not intended as a piece with which to make friends. Its intention is to "put the question" to all of us, to examine and criticize the habits and customs that have become entrenched in the past decade, and to ask if there is a way out.

Do the ends justify the means? The American answer of the last 10 years has been a resounding and discouraging "yes". In the name of a wide variety of lofty purposes Americans have justified a seemingly endless sequence of immoral or illegal actions.

The Johnson administration wanted to "save America from Communism" and to do so indulged in falsification, fraud and concealment.

Others seeking to "save America from an immoral war" deserted, rioted, and committed a wide variety of civilly disobedient acts.

Ellsberg sought to expose the deceptive practices of the Johnson administration. He took the Pentagon Papers.

The Plumbers wanted to prove that Ellsberg was unreliable. They broke into his psychiatrist's office.

CREEP and top White House staffers wanted to reelect the President. Result — Watergate.

Part of the media want to destroy the President. Method — slanted news.

It should be emphasized that the foregoing is by no means an exhaustive list. There is much more. America is overburdened with mighty purposes, and crummy ways to accomplish them. It is as though we had several crusades, all in motion at the same time, each seeking the holy grail, and each indulging in whatever atrocities were conceived as essential to the overall goal.

Involvement, moreover, is fairly universal. Large masses of Americans line up on one side or the other of important issues, and will defend whatever illegal things have been done in the name of glorious goals.

Ellsberg's supporters never see him as a thief. Others see the Plumbers as defenders of national security. Some of those approving the goals of the Johnson or Nixon administrations (not essentially the same people) applaud methods that can only be called chilling.

What has happened is this: Americans have become so politicized, polarized, and brutalized that any means will be supported if applied to a subjectively acceptable end. So long as the announced purpose is sufficiently laudable, anything goes. Thieves, blackguards, liars, deserters, burglars, givers and acceptors of bribes all inhabit a weird gallery of heroes.

The past week may have seen a turning point. The very excesses of the SLA may have ended the game. After a decade of constantly escalating means, the facade of high purpose may at last have shattered. For until the shoot-out in Los Angeles took place, it was difficult to rationalize any explanation for the senseless criminal acts of the SLA. With the cooling of the ashes, the song of the martyr has been heard throughout the land. This gang is now understood to have kidnapped, shot, and stolen in the name of the "people".

In this case, the claims of purpose and justification are simply too threadbare. The SLA appears to have indulged in brutal means for the sake of such means alone. How, otherwise, is their forfeiture of $4 million of food for the poor to be explained.

Thus, unquestionably against its own will, the SLA may have served a useful purpose. We may at last be filled of the poison fruit, and be prepared to seek our panaceas without resort to methods that degrade humankind, and which could well wear down this weary republic.

Does this then mark the end of means? Certainly not. We live under a constitution that provides abundant lawful means of bringing about change, and of seeking new goals. During most of our history Americans have confined their actions, as well as their approval of the actions of others, within the limits of the law. For us to continue to do otherwise could indeed mean the end.

St. Clair, Bacciocco For County Supervisor

San Mateo County is on the threshold of a period in its history when critical decisions will shape its future to an extraordinary extent.

The situation calls for leaders of demonstrated ability who will be responsive to the wishes and needs of the people.

With that in mind, The Times recommends Robert B. St. Clair and Edward J. Bacciocco Jr. for election to the County Board of Supervisors in the June 4 primary election.

They can be counted on to make the right decisions in dealing with such crucial issues as the maintenance of adequate health care facilities, the protection of local government against the threat of rampant regional supergovernment, and the orderly development of the county despite the clamor of the no-growthists.

Stability and experience, as well as new ideas and a fresh outlook, are valuable attributes on any governing board. In casting their ballots for St. Clair and Bacciocco, the voters may expect to obtain those qualities.

St. Clair is a veteran lawmaker, having served for eight years as a mayor and councilman in Daly City before being elected to the County Board of Supervisors as representative of the Second District in 1966. He is seeking election to a third four-year term in the current election and deserves to be elected on his record.

During his tenure both as a city councilman and as a county supervisor St. Clair has consistently acted according to what is best for the mass of the people, while some of his colleagues have allowed themselves to be persuaded by other considerations.

Bacciocco, while a newcomer to politics, has campaigned well and has demonstrated that he is sincerely motivated by concern for people. A scholar, researcher and author, Bacciocco is asking election as representative from the Third Supervisorial District.

Election of Robert St. Clair and Edward Bacciocco Jr. to the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors will help keep the county on the right track. The Times urges its readers to cast their votes for both on June 4.

Mental Illness Facility

The Mental Research Institute announced last week it has received a $538,000 federal grant to establish a residential care home in San Mateo County for the treatment of persons suffering from schizophrenia.

Officials at the Mental Research Institute (MRI) in Palo Alto said they are in the process of searching for a house somewhere in San Mateo County to accommodate about one dozen schizophrenic persons who will be treated here.

The San Mateo County facility will be patterned after "Soteria House I" in San Jose, the first such residential care home established for schizophrenics in the United States.

San Mateo County mental health officials and private agencies here are assisting the MRI in establishing the facility which will be developed as an alternative to hospitalization for persons suffering a first-episode schizophrenic break.

Schizophrenia is one of the most serious forms of mental illness, but MRI officials said studies at the already established San Jose home revealed that intensive interpersonal contact between staff and residents at Soteria House normally replaced the need for anti-psychotic medication.

After the acute phase of the life crisis affecting the schizophrenic patient has subsided, the patient is helped to reintegrate in a family-like atmosphere.

Officials at the San Jose facility operate on the principle that if the schizophrenic break is properly dealt with, it can leave a person stronger and better integrated with an increased capacity to pursue a life which he himself will regard as a success.

Daycamp Signups Underway

Daycamp '74, a summer activity program for children, begins June 24, and continues for five weeks.

Registration takes place June 1, 8, 15 from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. at Grace Presbyterian Church, Winchester and Crocker Streets, Daly City.

Daycamp '74 provides, under trained supervision, a program of crafts, nature study, sports, cook-outs, music, hiking and other learning experiences.

Open to children in first through sixth grades, it meets five days a week from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The cost, which includes transportation, supplies, equipment, insurance and supervision, is $25 per child for the entire five weeks or $6 per week if a child attends a lesser number of weeks. A limited number of scholarships are available.

This project is co-sponsored by three Daly City churches: Second Baptist, St. Luke's C.M.E. and the Grace Presbyterian.

Further information may be obtained at time of registration or by telephoning 586-6515 between 8 a.m. and between 8 a.m. and 11 a.m. during the week.

Mathewson Planning Commission Chairman

The South San Francisco Planning Commission has selected J. O. Mathewson as chairman and Homer Vale as vice chairman.

The commission also approved a request by the Royal Inn to construct four tennis courts on hotel property along Airport Boulevard for guest use only.

Royal Inn manager Gerald Greenback contested one of the 10 staff conditions for approval — that the landscaped areas along the front property line shall have a minimum depth of 10 feet.

He indicated that an area more than six feet wide would cost an additional $2,000 because of the excessive amounts of water necessary to maintain it.

"We plan to develop the back 56 feet of the lot at some future date," he said.

He said the hotel would seek approval for "some type of children's play area, and we need as much space as possible."

He said funds to go ahead with the playground are available now.

Greenback indicated the hotel will not construct the "regular type of playground," but are "pursuing new designs."

Additionally he said, "The extra (footage) won't benefit anybody.

A BBB Check List for Selecting Summer Camp

By LORENE BEASLEY
Editor BBB Barometer

This is the time of year when parents choose summer camps for their children.

It is not easy to pick a summer camp that is suitable for all children. Yearly the Better Business Bureau receives complaints from parents who have sent their children to camps that have given substandard service. The camps failed to give adjustments for justified complaints, or the camp was closed and left no phone number or mailing address.

The following check list has been compiled by the Better Business Bureau for parents who are considering sending their children to summer camps. All yes answers are a plus:

—Is the camp willing to provide references? Do the people you contact think their child had a good experience last summer? Would they send their child back to camp?

—Has the camp been in business for several years?

—Does the camp have permission to use certain facilities, such as a portion of a park? Check this out with the Parks Department. Ask for Supervisor of Recreation.

—Is there a variety of programs offered? Check exactly what they are and how long they last.

—Does the camp have a summer and winter address?

—Is transportation provided to and from the campsite? Are the drivers competent and qualified?

—Is there a first aid station at the campsite, particularly if the camp is on a beach?

—Are the staff members competent in first aid measures?

—Are there rainy day facilities? Some California camps do not have this problem but there may be cool, foggy days when the sun does not shine.

—Is it easy to reach your child in case of an emergency?

By doing your homework you may save not only money but worry and upset from camps that do not give your child the service you are paying for.

Serramonte Principal Receives Fellowship

Anthony Trujillo, principal of Serramonte High School since August 1972, became the recipient of one of this country's most distinguished fellowships, the Rockefeller Foundation Superintendent's Program.

The board of trustees has relieved Trujillo of his Serramonte responsibilities in order that he may participate in the Rockefeller program from September 1974 to June 1975. He will be returning to the district in July 1975.

The Rockefeller Foundation Superintendent's Training Program is unique. In one year administrators are provided with a variety of experiences in several settings — training which would be difficult if not impossible to duplicate were the program not in existence.

The immediate objective of the program is to prepare experienced administrators for high-level duties in the nation's school systems. The long-run goal of this and related Rockefeller Foundations Programs is to help structure improved environments.

The program has been in existence for three years and has trained 29 administrators who are now working around the country in positions of leadership and responsibility — as school superintendents, as deputy, associate, or assistant superintendents, or as educational program directors and regional superintendents.

Candidate for this program are recruited from outstanding promising administrators throughout the country.

The Rockefeller fellows spend ons semester in each of two districts which are selected and led by the outstanding superintendents in the nation. The fellowship grant includes the candidate's current salary and benefits plus full travel and relocation expenses for the candidate and his family.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

Are you in the mood to bake today? If so, I have two recipes for quick bread that are really terrific. One has pineapple, coconut and nuts as its main offerings and the other features orange marmalade, sherry and nuts. These breads freeze perfectly and make a tasty treat when you have unexpected guests.

PINEAPPLE SOUR CREAM NUT BREAD

2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon soda
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup sugar
¾ cup sour cream
1 8-oz. can crushed pineapple, drained
1 tablespoon pineapple juice from crushed pineapple
1 cup chopped nuts
½ cup shredded coconut

Sift together the two cups flour, one teaspoon salt and three-fourths teaspoon soda and set aside. In large mixing bowl beat one egg and beat in the one cup sugar. Stir in the three-fourths cup sour cream, eight ounces drained pineapple and one tablespoon pineapple juice. Blend in the dry ingredients. Add one cup chopped nuts and one-half cup coconut. Turn into well greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Place in cold oven. Turn heat to 350 degrees and bake about 75 minutes or until done. (NOTE: It took just 60 minutes in my oven, so check the baking at that time.) Remove from oven and allow to stand in pan for 5 minutes. Turn out and cool completely before slicing or storing. As I mentioned, this bread freezes well.

MARMALADE SHERRY NUT BREAD

3 cups sifted flour
½ cup sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 large egg
⅛ cup sherry
½ cup milk
3 tablespoons melted butter
⅜ cup orange marmalde
1 cup chopped nuts

Using a large mixing bowl, resift the three cups flour, one-half cup sugar, four teaspoons baking powder and one teaspoon salt into bowl. Add the egg, two-thirds cup sherry, one-half cup milk and three tablespoons melted butter and beat until smooth. Blend in the two-thirds cup marmalade and one cup nuts. Turn into well greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan and bake in 350-degree oven for one hour, or until done. Let stand for 5 minutes, turn on rack to cool completely before slicing or storing.

Camp Fire Girls Attend Annual Grand Council Fire

Mrs. Milton Gaffigan was installed president of Mary's Help Hospital Guild this past Friday morning during a breakfast meeting given for the volunteers by the Daughters of Charity.

A Mass in the hospital's chapel preceeded the presentation of awards, the acceptance of reports and the installation.

Serving with Mrs. Gaffigan will be Mrs. Eugene O'Donnell, vice president; Mrs. Andrew Ryan, recording secretary; Mrs. Andrew Lynch treasurer; Mrs. Dino Tonelli, corresponding secretary; Mrs. McRobert Stewart, Mrs. Aladeno Sereni and Mrs. Guido Tripaldi are the directors and Mrs. Elwin Short is the parliametarian.

During the summer months the guild's boutique committee will continue to meet on Thursdays at 10 a.m. in the hospital solarium. Committee members will be making items to be sold at the pre-Christmas gift boutique and everyone is welcome to come and help with the crafts and sewing.

THE TENTH annual Book Fair, sponsored by the Friends of the Daly City Library was a great success despite the wind which riffled the book leaves but not the determination of bargain hunters who browsed among the book tables each day.

Working to make the fair a profitable undertaking were Mrs. Alvin Schwarzbach, the chairwoman, Mrs. Anthony Giammona, pricing; Mrs. Samuel Mikulin, collection and Mrs. Emmett Tierney, publicity. Robert Kearney was the library liaison.

On Saturday Mrs. U. R. Kendree chaired the silent auction which featured many unusual books. The scouts of troop 129 with their leader, Don Melius, aided with the setting up and closing of the fair, and scouts in troop 270 were instrumental in collecting books.

A special addition on Friday was the appearance of the Westmoor Actors' workshop and the Serramonte High School concert choir. Saturday there were varied offerings by the girls of Girl Scout troop 476, the Actor's Workshop and the Westmoor High School girls' Glee Club.

SOME VOLUNTEER jobs have a two fold advantage in that they help others and the work is fun as well as spiritually rewarding.

Several opportunities are now available for people who enjoy the out-of-doors and like to work with families with children.

On August 24, mothers and children involved in the Friends Outside program will be leaving to spend a week in a camp located in the Valley of the Moon in Sonoma. Doug Kopecky of Portal Travel Service will be directing the camp and he will need many volunteers as well as funds to finance camperships.

Volunteers or persons wishing to make a financial contribution are asked to call the Friends Outside office for more information. Mrs. Louise Enberg is the director of the chapter and James Grittner is youth director and they may be reached by calling 661-6900.

JUNE HASN'T quite arrived but it is already time to begin making plans for summer outings.

The members of the Fifty Plus Club will take a tour that will see them riding the Super Skunk from Fort Bragg and visiting a number of small and interesting communities in the northern section of the state.

The trip is slated for July 9 and will last for three days and two nights.

For information or to make reservations call Mrs. Elizabeth Funderburg in Pacifica.

SERRAMONTE'S Mrs. Jay Guerrero reports that a limited number of spaces remain for students interested in the vacation Church School she will be directing during the final two weeks in June.

Classes for students, kindergarten through sixth grade, will meet weekdays from 9 a.m. until noon in Lakeside Presbyterian Church on Nineteenth avenue in San Francisco. Classes will begin June 17 and conclude on June 29. For information call Mrs. John Madrosen 564-5044.

The local Girl Scouts, who so graciously honored me this past month, will themselves be honored nationally during 1975.

The Girl Scout calendar of 1975 will feature scouts Janet Leong, Donna Salkind and Deborah Thomas chatting with Mrs. Pat Knox, Mrs. Caroline Futrell, Mrs. Jewell Drexler and a Ranger at the Hyde Street Pier and Museum.

Mrs. Mary Hale of the Girl Scouts Regional office took the photograph.

LOCAL CIVIC and business leaders were among those helping to celebrate the opening of the Boars Head at a cocktail party held in the restaurant this past week.

Garban, Frechette Married

St. Robert's Catholic Church was the setting for the marriage of Karen Jean Garban and Robert Louis Frechette. A reception followed at the South San Francisco Elks Club.

The Rev. Donald D'Angelo conducted the rites for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Garban and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Robert Frechette. Both families live in San Bruno.

Karen said her vows in a white silk organza gown styled with a square neckline, long sleeves embroidered with Venise lace and a chapel train. Her attendants wore pink knit dresses.

Paula Husak was the maid of honor, and bridesmaids included Mrs. Deanna Garban, the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Lynn Bilinski, Laura Thomas and Antoinette Frechette and Judith Donavan, sisters of the bridegroom.

Robert asked Les DeKom, his brother-in-law, to be the best man. Ushers were Thomas Garban of Arcata, the bride's brother, Gary Rinehart, Don Carlisle, and Michael Sarraille and William Donavan, the bridegroom's brother-in-law.

The new matron was graduated from Capuchino High School and Humboldt State University. Her husband studied at Crestmoor High School and Skyline College. He has two other sisters, Jane Lynn DeKom and Dorothy D. Sarraille.

The couple honeymooned in Hawaii and is now living in Millbrae.

Samuel Chandler Golden Years

"Welcome to the Golden Years! This is the time you have worked and saved for — time to spend with the family, travel, read, or just go fishing." Thus Dr. Robert B. Taylor writes in the preface to his very practical and readable book.

"Feeling Alive After 65" was published to be a complete medical guide for senior citizens and their families. Yet it is more than that, with chapters on death and Medicare and lists of books and pamphlets for further study.

Chapter five discusses the mysteries of diet and states that obesity is a disease. The cure is day to day diet planning, with a trip to the doctor first. Dr. Taylor, the author, writes, "The older person who has a weight problem should shun weight reducing clinics and place his trust in the family physician, who has a comprehensive knowledge of his overall health picture."

Chapter 26 begins with the sentence "Yes, Virginia, there is sex after 65. Even after 40 years of living together, marriage should continue to bloom." There follows a chapter of advice on such subjects as a second honeymoon, impotence and frigidity.

Chapter 27 is a discussion of home care of the senior citizen. In it Dr. Taylor warns against ill-advised decisions that place old people and their families in uncomfortable and embarrassing conditions. An important question that requires objective thinking, the doctor writes, is do the relatives who speak of love have the facilities for caring for an aged person? SUCH FACILITIES include a ground-level room with adjoining bathroom facilities, safety rails, hospital bed, bedpans, urinals, a bedside telephone, and finally "There must be a devoted daughter or son with the time and interest to carry out the family nursing chores necessary to maintain the well-being of the elderly family member."

On the other hand, choosing to send an aged person to a nursing home is a decision that requires wisdom. Hence Dr. Taylor includes a chapter entitled "When You Need a Nursing Home." A section therein outlines what to look for in a nursing home. Another section is addressed to the cost of nursing homes and if the family can afford to send a person to one. In this chapter is a list of charges that may be expected and of what can be expected from Medicaid.

Of special interest is Chapter 31, "The Senior Citizen Enters the Hospital." The information presented is truly down to earth advice about doctors, nurses, the hospital employes and the finances of hospital confinement.

Because "Feeling Alive After 65" is such a practical book it has been favorably reviewed and recommended as a tool for placing in the homes of senior citizens. Furthermore, copies have been placed in all the branches of the Daly City Public Library and will be loaned to patrons who desire to borrow a copy.

"Good health is your most valuable asset . . . Protect it!"

On the Look out for Energy Wasters

By RO LOGRIPPO

If anyone was an energy waster before the crisis came to pass it was Kitty Borah.

She drove a big car, left lights on throughout the house, kept two televisions going at the same time and even had electric drapery pulls.

But last October she changed her ways. The former Houston television co-anchor woman accepted a job with Shell Oil Company as their special services representative. The new post meant spreading the word of energy conservation throughout the land.

Obviously a believer in practicing what you preach, Kitty decided to find out firsthand how dependent she was on energy sources. For three days, she lived without energy.

"The first thing I missed was my clock radio," Kitty explained during a recent trip to the Bay Area. "I really noticed the quietness. Next, I missed the lights and the warmth they seem to give off. I remember I was annoyed, too, at not being able to use them." (For the trial period, Kitty had taped all the switches in her apartment.)

Her experiences that initial day of the experiment included trying to ride a bicycle nine miles to work, walking up 15 flights of stairs to her office, and using a manual typewriter instead of an electric one.

By the next day, Kitty was already losing her pioneer spirit. She was beginning to tire of heating water on the charcoal grill for instant coffee, and putting her makeup on by candlelight. That night her frustration reached a peak when she burned the steaks she was barbecuing for guests because she couldn't see well enough with candles.

"By Sunday morning, I was feeling physically ill," Kitty confided. "I didn't want to boil water or even try to eat. I was just biding time to the deadline I had set for myself."

Because she lives in an apartment, Kitty was unable to measure how much energy she had saved during her weekend experiment. For that reason, she decided to endure another test, this time in a house where the results could be tabulated. A Connecticut family was persuaded to let Kitty spend three days with them to try to reduce their normal energy usage by 40 per cent. In fact, by following Kitty's conservation guidelines, the family was able to cut back their energy usage by 60 per cent. (Turning the thermostat to 58 degrees and changing the water heater from high to medium helped them achieve their goal).

Kitty, who refers to herself as a reformed sinner since the experiments, believes that most people aren't aware of how much energy they waste. "As Americans we have acquired a creeping dependency on energy. Items we once considered luxuries are now necessities because of our lifesty,e" she said listing appliances such as electric can openers, dishwashers and electric curlers.

Kitty backs up her statements with the fact that people in the United States use more energy than all the people in Great Britain, Japan, Germany, and Russia combined. "Why?", she asks, "Because in the US we're geared to the concept money will buy anything — more cars, air conditioners, etc. Americans work hard so they can afford to buy these things, and it's difficult to convince them they should cut back for conservation reasons."

Kitty is adamant about everyone making a committment to conservation because she believes petroleum is "an endangered species. It's even more important now that the oil embargo has been lifted to continue conservation efforts," she adds.

How can people cut back?

"There are many ways," says Kitty. "If every family just took one less short trip by car a week, we'd save billions of gallons of gas on a national basis."

Kitty also suggests "using what you need and needing what you use." Don't buy bigger or more appliances than you require, she admonished, and carpool whenever possible.

Using radial tires, weatherstripping around windows and doors and providing adequate wall and ceiling insulation are other tips Kitty gives.

"A ¼ inch gap under an outside door lets in as much cold air as a nine square inch hole in the wall," she noted.

In addition, Kitty suggested that people take heed of the amount of water they use since the hot water heater is the second largest user of energy in the home. One drop of hot water a second, she said, can waste 650 gallons of water a year.

How important is it to turn that thermostat down to 68 degrees?

"Lowering home heating thermostats saves considerable energy," said Kitty, explaining that every degree above 70 on your home heating thermostat uses about three per cent more fuel in 24 hours."

After listening to Kitty talk for an hour about energy conservation it was hard not to be convinced of her sincerity. But the interview was cut short because she had to catch a plane to San Jose.

Perhaps the Texas native did not realize the short distance between San Mateo and her destination when she booked the flight. But the local Shell Oil public relations worker told me later that Kitty prefers taking short flights to driving.

It certainly gives one cause to wonder.

Top Daly City Students Honored

Twelve students from Daly City's three high schools — Serramonte, Westmoor and Jefferson — were honored Thursday during the Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce 16th Annual Students Awards dinner.

The affair is an annual project of the Chamber with students selected by their teachers and principals for the awards.

Master of Ceremonies for the event, held at the Red Chimney Restaurant in San Francisco, was Jefferson Union High School District Superintendent Edward Morgan.

Representing the high schools, and introducing students and their families, were Principal Robert Bush (Jefferson); principal Anthony Trujillo (Serramonte); and principal Clayton Kollman (Westmoor).

During the ceremonies, Morgan announced that Trujillo would take a one year leave of absence to work on a Rockefeller Foundation Fellowship.

Opening statements for the event came from former longtime high school trustee Elio Fontana, with statements regarding the history of the awards from Chamber president Frank Spadarella.

Daly City Mayor McRobert Stewart welcomed the students and praised them for their diligence and hard work.

Students receiving honors were Cynthia Chan, Lucy Abram, Marco Lari and Pauline Schmidt from Jefferson.

Serramonte's outstanding students were Vivian Lee, Nancy Waisanen, Richard Gleeson and Pamela McNeil.

Leilani Omoto, Nina Berglund, Jim Liston and Debbie Lillef from Westmoor High School were honored.

Charges Are Dismissed

Charges lodged against four Daly City youths for allegedly mugging a 15-year-old news vendor outside a supermarket have been dismissed by a North County Municipal Court judge this week.

The charges for alleged strongarm robbery had been made against Raymond McCrum, 19, 646 San Diego Ave.; Daniel Lanzarin, 18, 44 Woodrow Street, and two other boys, ages 15 and 17 years old.

Police Officer Steve Powell arrested the four after he spotted them near Station Avenue and School Street shortly after Jeff Neustadt, 15, was mugged and robbed

Chamber Sets Installation

Millbrae Chamber of Commerce members will celebrate their "25th Anniversary" at an installation dinner-dance June 8, at the Green Hills Country Club.

$6,500 Fire In Pacifica

A fire broke out in the bedroom of a Pacifica home in Sharp Park late Friday morning causing an estimated $6,500 damage.

A fire official said, when firemen arrived at 346 Carmel Ave., smoke and flames were pouring out of the house, owned and occupied by Harold Hefner. The official stated cause of the fire was a possible electric short in the bedroom. The fire spread from the bedroom to an adjacent room before being brought under control.

No one was at home at the time of the fire.

San Pedro Valley

First Step in Park Master Plan Taken

First step in creating a master plan for the 1,000-acre San Pedro Valley County Park was taken last week when the San Mateo County Park and Recreation Commission listened to concerns of Pacificans.

Herb Shaw, representing the environmental planning firm of EDAW Inc. of San Francisco, told how his firm plans to proceed with an environmental impact report and a master plan for the park, to be ready by late June.

Harry Dean, landscape architect with the county, told the audience that under the plans adopted by the board of supervisors, the park will have a low intensity, low key use. More active uses will be at Frontierland, the adjacent city park now being developed. Major development will be a system of loop trails to tie in with the watershed.

Shaw explained a project team of either specialists will be working on the EIR and master plan. These will include a stream biologist, botanist, engineering geologist and acoustical engineer.

Shaw told the audience — a small group gathered in the board room of the Laguna Salada School District — he wanted to know the community concerns so that he could incorporate them in his firm's reports. The audience included representatives of the city's Parks, Beaches and Recreation Commission, Clark Natwick of Keep Pacifica Scenic, City Councilwoman Janet Fulford, Harlan Hill, superintendent of the North Coast Water District, some youth leaders and a few unofficial residents.

Among concerns expressed were:

—Protection of the fishlife of San Pedro Creek.

—Possible need for overflow parking (use of nearby school yard, rather than bulldozing new field, suggested.)

—Possible conflict with the showplace S Catholic Chur4ich, at the park's entrance.

—Sensitivity of natural area to intensive use.

The question was asked if it would be a fee park. County Parks and Recreation Director Jack Brooks preferred to call it "a controlled park."

There was some discussion of the possibility of overnight parking. Brook assured the audience that overnight parking would not be permitted, except for special permits to be issued.

Youth Center Celebrates

Youth Searchlight Center at 43 Lakeview Ave., San Francisco, a chartered nonprofit organization in the heart of the OMI district, will observe its fourth year of the operation, and the first anniversary of the opening of the youth center.

The Center offers tutorial service in reading and math, counseling for all ages and temporary live-in accommodations for young ladies in a Christian atmosphere.

President — Founder and Director, Mr. and Mrs. Loy Simmons and the board of directors of the Searchlight Center celebrated their anniversary May 25, at Ingleside Presbyterian Church, Ocean and Granada Avenues. Dinner was served.

Southwood Junior High Sets Annual Publications Banquet

The seventh annual Publications Banquet, for Southwood Junior High School, will be held tonight at 6:30.

Approximately 100 students, parents, friends and faculty members will attend.

The banquet is held each year to honor those who worked on Southwood's paper, The Brave, and the yearbook, The Savage. The annual Publications Award will be presented to an adult from the City of South San Francisco who has helped with the publications of the school.

Students of the department who have contributed to the success of the publications beyond their normal class time will be presented the Press Award.

Final awards to be presented will be to those outstanding staff members of The Brave and The Savage. The students were selected by the staff members of each publication in a secret vote.

W. J. Maher, adviser to Southwood's publications, will be master of ceremonies and will present the awards. Terry Ergas, editor of the 1972 Savage, will return to deliver the evening's major address. Miss Ergas will address the student journalists and guests on her experiences in school publications.

Nick Crusick, assistant principal at Southwood, will speak during the evening, and the banquet will be concluded by W. J. Maher.

Senior 'Slave Auction'

By ANNE HILO
Campus Correspondent

A Senior Slave Auction and car bash were two featured activities at terra Nova's Spring Fair, entitled "Space Odyssey," on May 22.

Students skipped their sixth period classes (legally) and wandered around booths and smelled aromas of hotdogs, cotton candy, burritos, cakes, cupcakes, hot apple cider and cookies.

One could have his fortune told by Deca Den's Madame Leoto for 50 cents, or maneuver a boat in Terra Nova's pool in a game called "Operation Scoop," sponsored by the Senior class.

The Junior class sold food, candles, and potted plants, while the sellers, Carla Collins and Kathy Prittchet, dressed in "alien" outfits with antennas.

The Math Club display was made of newspaper tubes in a symetrical formation, while students chanced their aim at dart, poker and pitch games.

The Executive Board held a food "Auxiliary," selling slices of watermellon and chilie-hotdogs.

Freshmen sold coke and sponsored a ring toss game, while Mike Bourns (Tiger Tales photographer) and Jeff Frye maintained a photography booth with Superman and streaker props.

A "Whalen-Roast," a special tribute to Terra Nova's favorite librarian, Fran Whalen, was held May 23, in the library.

Mainly composed of seniors who are usually kicked out of the library, the "toasters," gave speeches, saluted Mrs. Whalen.

San Mateo County Sends Delegates Helpers to State P-TA Convention

San Mateo County had delegates and helpers at the recent convention of the California State P-TA.

Volunteer pages from the county were headed by Mrs. Will Thomas of Colma, and the more than 200 signs used for conferences, meal functions and Civic Auditorium were made by students in Robert Wait's Crestmoor High drawing and print class.

Participating students were: Tony Badal, Julie Anderson, Eva Cabico, Paul Kostoros, Sharon Giani and Leslie Nuttman.

The 17th District resolution on Duplicate Emergency forms was passed with amendments recommended by the preliminary reference committee and forwarded to National P-TA Convention in San Antonio, Tex. Delegates from 17th District will be Mrs. Gordon Nelson, president, and Mrs. Starr J. Colby, president-elect.

Another highlight of the convention was the acceptance of the San Bruno P-TA Park Council into membership. They were represented by Mrs. Sidney Ingalsbe, charter president, and delegates Mesdames Patricia Fournier (Crestmoor), Dan Wacker (El Crystal), Christo Pallas (Parkside), George Cayssials (Sandburg) and Mr. Oscar Colin (Engvall).

Mrs. Lennert Swenson, newly elected president of the California State P-TA, has appointed to the State Board of Managers two local residents: Mrs. Earl Oldham (State Board Arrangements) and Mrs. Gordon Nelson (serving with Coastal Region vice president Mrs. Donna Lenzi and second District president Mrs. Pat Langdell) in extension services. Both Mrs. Oldham and Mrs. Nelson live in San Bruno.

Shirley a 'Workhorse'

Tigers Blast Panthers 7-2

By JERRY LITTRELL
Post Correspondent

If Terra Nova High School is seriously entertaining thoughts of advancing to this year's Central Coast Section championship then maybe Coach Marty Coil should schedule a game for today or Thursday as a warmup for next Friday and Saturday night's double-header finale.

With that extra practice game thrown in he could tire out star lefthander Steve Shirley, a quirk of a lefthander who thrives on work and seemingly gets better as he gets more "tired."

That fact became rather evident this past weekend at Burlingame's Washington Field. Shirley threw over 130 pitches in beating Bellarmine Thursday and still, with only about 40 hours rest, came back to slam shut the door on Burlingame's Panthers with a stylish three-inning relief stint that capped a 7-2 victory.

When he took the mound to start the fifth inning Shirley was protecting a slim 3-2 lead. Tiger starter Pete Wathen had surrendered a single run in the first on singles by Mike McCallion and Erol Akchurin combined with an outfield error by Shirley.

Paul Kolesnikow's solo homer off Wathen to open the fourth inning, a towering 365-foot shot to the leftfield bushes, was the deciding factor for Coil who turned the ball over to Shirley for the final three frames.

Shirley had been wild against Bellarmine, walking eight.

"He was too strong with a week's rest," Coil admitted, before the Burlingame contest. "But if we have to use him today he should be tough."

It was a prophetic statement. Shirley faced only 10 batters, one over the limit, and struck out five of them, three on great curves, a pitch with which he had had difficulties on Thursday.

If Burlingame had played headier earlier in the game the Panthers could have been sitting prettier in the late innings. As it was the Panthers allowed two unearned runs in the first on a double-error play.

With two down and the bags empty Shirley walked off loser McCallion. Gary Chirolo and Reggie Pomicpic singled for one run but with two strikes on Bill Bender and runners at first and second McCallion tried to pick off Pomicpic at second and threw the ball into centerfield. Kolesnikow was slow covering the backup and then allowed the ball to skip by him. When he held onto the ball too long after picking it up Pomicpic scored all the way from first for the second run on the same play.

The score remained 3-2 until the hope-killing four-run sixth for TN. Chirolo's second hit started it and a wild pitch moved him to second. An infield out followed by a walk to Bender put runners on first and third with one out.

Coach Terry Christman then employed a dangerous move by intentionally walking Bob Hinch.

Proud Father

LOCAL NOTES: Ernie Ribera, Assistant Superintendent of the Jefferson High School District and one of the oldest ex-jocks around, is a very proud father, and he should be.

The latest accomplishment by one of his offsprings in a continuous string of accomplishments by young Riberas, is by Jim Ribera, a plebe at Annapolis who was recently voted first in his company at the Navy school.

Not only is Jim a good sailor and a good student (we're proud to say that he was a fine sports writer while attending Oceana High), but he is also second man on the varsity 440 intermediate hurdles team, which is no little accomplishment, because Navy is rated the third best track team in the cuntry, and best in the east.

All of which indicates that Jim is about to eclipse the accomplishments of his father, who in his callow youth was also quite a trackman.

And does Ernie feel old and sad about this?

"No," says Ernie. "I'm happy. I want them all to be better than I ever was or ever will be. That's what my wife and I are here for."

ALSO IN TRACK, John Pettus was the only double winner for San Francisco State in the Far Western Conference finals, coming up with victories in the 220 and 100. His 21.3 in the 220 tied the conference record set in 1971 by Ralph Ligons, who himself took only a third in the finals. Pettus ran the 100 in 9.8. The only other Gator winner was Bob Parker, who chucked the javelin 228-8. The Gators finished third as a team.

WAVING THE AMERICA flag or defending the owners and management of American professional athletic teams is not our usual style, but what Felipe Alou said about professional baseball — and, indirectly, about the United States — when he was released a couple of weeks ago frankly disgusted us.

Alou, playing seldom and hitting about .180 at the time of his release said (and this is a paraphrase): "No Latin ballplayer who hits less than .240 is ever kept on a major league roster." (He went on to mention something about coaching opportunities, and may have had a valid point there, but it was not his main point of contention.)

Well, we've got news for Alou. Plenty of Latin infielders have been kept on major league rosters with batting averages of less than .240; and NO 38-year-old outfielder - first-baseman who hits less than .240 will EVER stay on a major league roster for too long, whether he's white American or Latin black. Alou mentioned that he was in good shape and that Willie Mays wasn't in any better shape when he was 38, but that he was kept on. Three points there: 1) When Mays was 38, he played regularly, and hit.283. 2) Alou ain't a Willie Mays. 3) Being in good shape may get you pictured stripped to the waist or further down in Playgirl, but Charles Atlas never hit above .240, either, which is why he was a Body beautiful and not a major league baseball player.

We further resent the racial implications of Alou's remarks. Any man who says he isn't racially prejudiced is a liar, unless he's Jesus Christ. Suspicion of someone who looks different than you is an inborn defense mechanism and probably impossible to ever erase completely. But there are degrees of racial prejudice, and off-hand we would say that of all the big business groups, professional sports is the least racially prejudiced.

Not because the managements of professional sports have necessarily higher moral tones than those of other big businesses, but because a greater tolerance of minorities is good business. There are just too many great minority athletes available to allow prejudice get in the way of performance and profit.

IT IS STRANGE that Alou, a devout religious man, a preacher (when he lived in Pacifica while playing for the Giants he often preached in Pacifica and other Bay Area churches), played nearly 17 years of big league baseball, many of them at salary ranges in the $40-50,000 level, before he decided to expose those terrible owners as bigots. Where was he when other Latin outfielders who couldn't hit .240 were getting their releases:

As the reader might now discern, we are damned upset with Alou. He is an uneducated foreigner, yet this country gave him the opportunity to make more money in a short career than many formally educated natives of the United States make in their entire careers. The baseball playing Alou brothers have together made more in a decade or so than most natives of the U.S. will ever see in their lives. And they've taken most of it back to their native Dominican Republic where without North American baseball, the Alous might now be walking around barefoot.

We didn't know that the primary export of the Dominican Republic was sour grapes.

FOR STAT HOUNDS:

You probably already know that Harmon Killebrew has, next to Babe Ruth, the all-time best record for homeruns per times at bat. You may also know that among active players, Willie McCovey, with homeruns every 14.33 times at bat, is next in line in that category behind Killebrew. But you may not know that the third best active player in that statistic is Dave Kingman, who whacks HR's every 14.93 at bats. Which may give you a hint as to why the Giants don't trade him and let him play some place, as long as he can get to the plate, no matter how often he strikes out.

Perhaps the most overlooked carer statistic among active players is also maybe the most incredible. That happens to be Tom Seaver's lifetime earned run average — 2.38!

And meanwhile, the world is going crazy. At least the baseball law of averages' world is. The two leading homerun hitting teams in the major leagues are both teams which for the last decade have been known for NOT hitting homers — the Dodgers and the Mets (the Dodgers have a few more than the Mets). The Dodgers, infact, are leading the major leagues in runs scored by such a wide margin, that they have averaged something more than one more run per game than their closest competitor in the National League (Houston), and about 1.4 runs more per game than Kansas City, which leads the American League in runs scored.

The Giants, who were, as always, supposed to be

Skyline College Athletic Director Walt Rilliet has resigned as basketball coach effective this fall to devote more time to his positions as athletic director and physical education division chairman.

Rilliet stated that with the continuing expansion of the athletic programs at Skyline, he found it difficult finding enough time to devote to the growing demands of each job.

"My job is held by three people at CSM and Canada," he said. "I can't afford to let one of the three slide. I thought that last year things got behind.

"I found I forgot to do this or to do that. These were little things, but still things that should have been done. The Dean of Instruction (Dr. Rudy Melone) was wondering why I was missing a lot of instructional meetings. It was at his request that I decided to give up basketball."

Rilliet noted that when he first came to Skyline in 1969, the college competed in only two sports, basketball and wrestling.

one of the heaviest hitting and weakest pitching teams in the majors, have the second worst team batting average in the big leagues, are strictly second division as far as long ball hitting is concerned, but are hanging in as one of the winningest teams in the game with good pitching.

BASEBALL BRAIN TEASER OF THE WEEK:

The Giants and Dodgers are playing a scoreless tie at Candlestick in the ninth inning. There are two out when Tito Fuentes doubles. Gerry Maddox gets an infield hit and Fuentes goes to third. Ed Goodson gets two quick strikes called on him, and then swings and misses at a bad pitch breaking into the ground, which catcher Joe Ferguson picks up cleanly as the umpire calls a strike. Ferguson rolls the ball back to the mound.

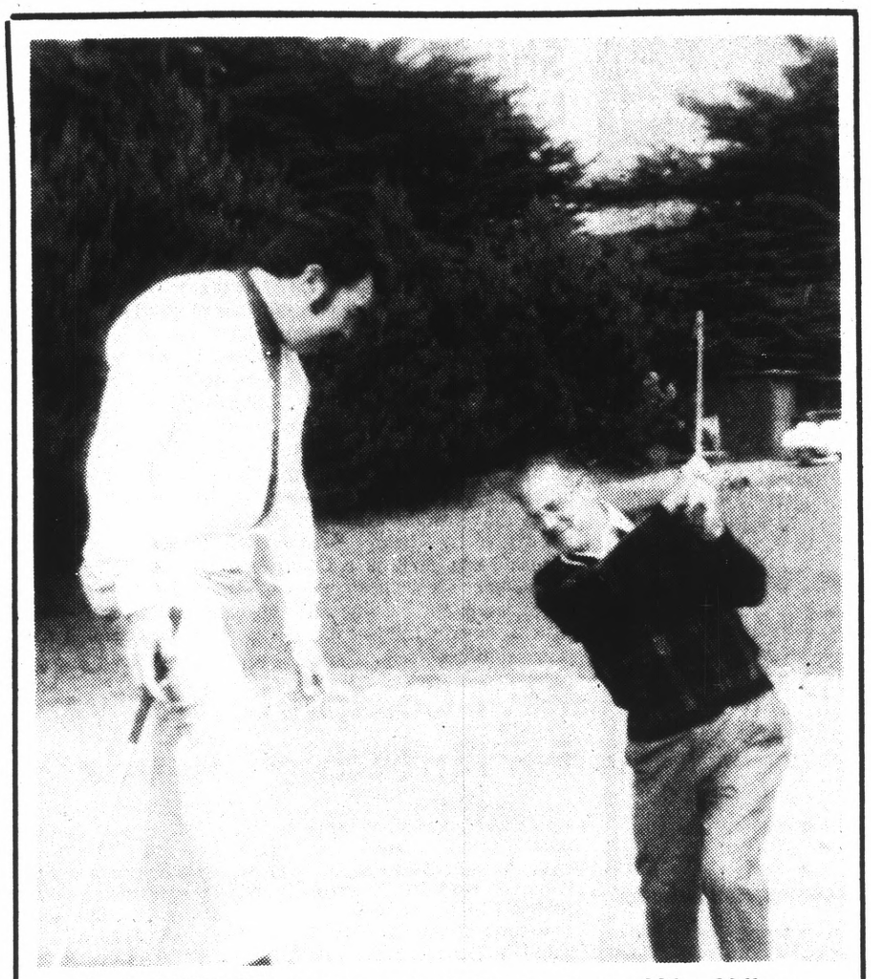
The Dodgers assume it is the third out, and move up to bat in what they think has become an extra inning game. But Giant first base coach Joe Amalfitano calls Goodson to the bag. Fuentes cross home plate and Maddox goes to third. The Giants claim there is no third out because the ball hit the dirt and the batter was never tagged or thrown out.

How does the umpire call it?

The answer: The ball that Ferguson scooped up was not a legal catch, so Fuentes is allowed to score, Maddox is allowed third base, and Goodson is allowed first base. The rules say that it is impossible for the catcher to make a legal catch of a missed strike which hits the ground either before or after passing the batter.

LAST WEEK we lamented about the problms of writing a weekly column, about how what is fresh news when we write it is often stale when it finally gets into print.

One of the examples we used was the Houston Astros, who at the time were chasing the Dodgers, even though just a couple of weeks before we had down-graded them, with much of our criticism being directed at their secondary players. So what they had done was rise to challenge the Dodgers with nonentities playing the essential keystone (short and second) while regulars Roger Metzger and Tommy Helms sat out with injuries.



A. J. PHILLIPS, tournament chairman, shows Mike Millane, fourth director, how easy it is coming out of a sand trap.

Westlake Tourney

Final arrangements are being made for the Westlake Catholic Men's Annual Golf Tournament to be held June 8, reports tournament Chairman A. J. Phillips.

The tournament will xe played this year at Half Moon Bay, one of the finest and most demanding golf courses around.

All are welcome, but reservations are a must.

A charge of $25 per person will include green fees, a golf cart, and a prime rib dinner. The dinner will be at the Red Chimney Restaurant in Stonestown at 7 p.m.

For reservations call A. J. Phillips at 755-1974 or 756-6810.

International Tennis Match at Cow Palace

Northern California's biggest annual tennis tournament, the Fireman's Fund International, will be played for $100,000 this year, double the $50,000 purse for last year's event.

This was announced by Barry macKay, former Davis Cup star who will direct the tournament.

MacKay also announced that the tournament, scheduled for Sept. 23-29, will be played at the Cow Palace, the first time in several years this event has been held in San Francisco.

MacKay said at a noon news conference at the Hotel St. Francis that the tournament, a men's open, is expected to be one of the top attractions on the international tennis circuit this year. "In addition to being one of the richest in the world, it will be the only major tournament played the week of Sept. 23, and we expect nearly all the top touring pros to come to San Francisco."

Sixty-four players will compete in singles and doubles matches with $16,000 going to the singles champion, MacKay said.

Last year's Fireman's Fund International, played at Round Hill Country Club in Alamo, was won by Australian Roy Emerson, now player-coach of the Golden Gaters of the World Team Tennis League. Emerson defeated 17-year-old Bjorn Borg, in what was the young Swedish star's first major tournament final.

The 1974 Fireman's Fund International will be the first major tennis tournament ever held at the Cow Palace. MacKay said elaborate plans are being made to convert the mammoth indoor showplace into a "first-rate tennis facility."

"The Cow Palace Tennis Club," as he referred to it, will have two courts for opening round matches. It will then be converted to one court for the quarter-, semi-, and final-round matches.

"With some rather extensive interior landscaping we expect to give the arena all the appearances of a posh tennis club," MacKay said.

Courtside box seats will be set up on the main floor, he said, and total seating capacity will exceed 10,000, making it one of the largest tennis stadiums in the world.

The Fireman's Fund International is a continuation of an annual competition that was started in 1889 at the Del Monte Hotel on the Monterey Peninsula, and known for many years as the Pacific Coast International.

It is one of the oldest international tennis events in the world, predating the French, Italian and Australian championships.

Recent winners include the current 1974 top-money winner John Newcombe, Stan Smith, Jimmy Connors, Rod Laver and Arthur Ashe.

San Francisco-based Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies assumed sponsorship of the event in 1973.

Fireman's Fund Vice President Edward O. Scharetg said the prize money is being raised to $100,000 in order to assure that "the top professional players will continue to be attracted to this tournament."

"We want to keep this tournament one of the main events of the year on the international circuit," he said.

MacKay, a six-time U.S. Davis Cup team member, has promoted and directed numerous major tennis tournaments in the Bay Area in recent years. He directed the U.S.-Romania Davis Cup Interzone matches held last August at Round Hill.

He was twice the singles champion of the PCI, a forerunner of the tournament he now directs.

MacKay said tickets for the 1974 Fireman's Fund International will go on sale in June at the Cow Palace box office and through most Bay Area ticket agencies.

A Bright Future

'Hurdles' Ahead for Skyline College

By FRED BAER
Post Correspondent

Although upsets in the hurdles allowed Antelope Valley to finish a scant one point ahead of Skyline among small college entries in the 1974 California Junior College Association track and field championships at Bakersfield, the hurdle events still loom brightly in the Trojans' future.

Ike Allmond, who ran both stick events in the state meet, finishing fourth in the highs in 14.4, and fifth place miler Tony Fotinos (4:18.0) are both due to return to the Trojan campus next season.

Only loss among Skyline's four spots in the state finals will be intermediate hurdler Jim Wyatt. That's a big loss, of course, despite the fact Wyatt suffered his first hurdle setback of the season when Glendale frosh Rick Steele blazed to a state meet record 52.1 intermediate hurdle victory. Steele had finished third as Wyatt triumphed in their only previous meeting this year.

This time Wyatt went out fast and held the lead into the final turn. Then Steele put on a blazing kick for the victory, pulling two other Southern Californians past San Mateo County's hope. Wyatt still clocked a personal record 52.9 — bettering the Skyline record of 53.0 he set in finishing third in last year's state meet. Allmond was eighth in 55.1.

Antelope Valley's Mark Davie upset national high hurdle leader Derek Ligons of Chabot for the second straight week to capture the high stick event in 14.1. Allmond was the leading frosh in the race, with his swift fourth place finish completing a Northern California sweep of the event. The Trojan just missed catching John Foser of Foothill for third, while the top Southern finisher, Chris Hallman of Grossmont, was a half second back in fifth place.

Adding one point in the javelin, AVC scored 11 points to ten for Skyline as the top teams from small college conferences. Fullerton took the overall title easily, as expected, with 45 points, followed by L.A. Southwest with 32.

Seven state meet records fell in what most observers called the greatest meet in the 24-year history of state championships. The highlight was a 1:48.0 national JC record in the 880 by Laney soph James Robinson — making him the fastest American (citizen) collegian this season (a tenth ahead of Cal's Rick Brown) — and second among all Americans this year only to world record holder Rick Wohlhuter of Chicago Track Club, who has clocked 1:46.8 this spring.

Robinson, who will run in the Kennedy Games at Cal Saturday, also had a 45.6 split on Laney's 3:10.2 mile relay team and was voted the meet's outstanding athlete.

The relay was won by Southwest in a state record 3:09.0 as Karl Farmer came back from his record 46.4 open 440 victory to churn a 45.9 anchor. Bakersfield, which won last year's relay in 3:12.4, third best in meet annals, chopped over a second off that time to run 3:11.3 and finish only fifth.

San Mateo County's other entry in the meet, high jumper Pete McMuran of Menlo, finished eighth at 6-6. That was the same as the fourth place height but he was displaced on misses, taking until his third try to make 6-6.

National leader Tony Madau of Fullerton, who's done 7-0½, won at 6-10 — the only gold medal performance for the team champion Hornets.

Only Peninsula winner was frosh discus thrower Jay Pushkin of Foothill, with a 164-4 throw. The Coast Conference produced the winner of the exhibition steeplechase, Monterey's Emil Magallenes (9:14.2 record).

And Northern Californians dominated the pole vault. Bob Flint of Fresno edging Roger Martin of West Valley on misses at the record height of 16-6¼ — taking former College of San Mateo vaulter Dennis Phillips out of the state record book (a 16-5½ leap in 1966).

Veteran Actors Use Routine at Lunch

The saggy-jowled comedian cupped his hand against his mouth and whispered in a voice loud enough to be heard by four surrounding tables at Trader Vic's, "When Joe gets into trouble with the lines, he goes right into Cyrano."

"Are you kidding? I'd have to borrow your nose," was his partner's retort.

The couple ran jokes through most of our interview and I figured they were probably rehearsing lines for "The Sunshine Boys" opening May 28 at the Geary Theater.

PHIL LEEDS, JOSE FERRER
Oldtime Vaudeville Team

It was Phil Leeds and Jose Ferrer (with a small gold earring in his left ear) who are appearing in the American Conservatory Theater production as two old-time vaudeville comedians (Smith and Dale), reunited but not reconciled after an 11-year retirement for a TV special on "The Golden Age of Comedy."

On Broadway where the Neil Simon play closed a few weeks ago, Sam Levine and Jack Albertson were the caustic comedy companions. Leeds and Ferrer teamed up in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. and Atlanta, Ga. and had never together before.

Neither are newcomers to San Francisco stages. Ferrer was here last with the national company of "Man of La Mancha" three years ago. His career followed a natural upward curve from his early Equity days in 1935 on Broadway through the long running "Brother Rat," to "Othello" in 1943 and "Charley's Aunt." He won an Oscar for his screen role as "Cyrano de Bergerac" and two additional Academy Award nominations.

As for their offstage repartee, Leeds and Ferrer claim they "kid on a higher level than in 'Sunshine Boys'." They obviously have high respect for each other's talent.

Leeds is a tiny man, all expression, with a pliable countenance. He was here last year at the Geary as master of the indifferent, shaggy dog in "Two Gentleman of Verona" and was a stand-up comic at the hungry i back in 1956.

"Joe is one of the great raconteurs," Leeds said of his cohort. "He is a marvelous story teller. I'm trying to persuade him to do 'An Evening With Jose.' He's ridiculous if he thinks he has to always be classical."

Ferrer counters, "'Moulin Rouge' and 'Cyrano' overshadowed my career. But a computer would show numerically that I've done a lot of other things in a lighter vein. I'd have loved to be in vaudeville and burlesque but it was over by the time I began."

They continued to chide each other all the way down the street in asides worthy of playwright Simon. "Sunshine Boys" will have a limited run.

A whirlwind tour of the globe is planned on July 18, as the "Pops Goes Traveling."

Maestro Arthur Fiedler — America's master of Pops programming — returns for the 24th gala season to conduct the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra in the summer extravaganza. "Pops" concerts are presented by the San Francisco Art Commission.

The "World of Dance" is explored on July 20, with the Carlos Carvajal Dance Spectrum as guests.

Fiedler's opening program is "Pops U.S.A.," a cavalcade of American songs from Sousa, Bernstein, ragtime, folk dancing and jug band.

Final week of the season begins on July 23, with "Picadilly Night at the Pops." Maestro Fiedler's visit to England will feature members of San Francisco's Lamplighters company in Gilbert and Sullivan excerpts.

On July 11, "Pops Goes to the Zoo." Featured artist is Mel Blanc, well known voice of Bugs Bunny, Woody Woodpecker and others, who will narrate Saen-Saens "Carnival of the Animals."

July 25 is "Request Night" and a time for pops lovers everywhere to have their wishes fulfilled. Violinist Stuart Canin is soloist in the Mendelssohn Violin Concerto.

"Music of the Forties" is the July 13, theme, and the evening will spotlight a decade which featured the sounds of Glenn Miller.

Community singing and all-time Fiedler favorites are featured in the closing concert on July 27, in the traditional sell-out, "Old Timers Night."

$5,554 for SSF Bond Issue

Campaign Chest Raised by Committee

A campaign chest of $5,554 has been raised by the Public Safety Bond Committee, according to a statement filed by Hal Schuette, treasurer of the committee, at the South San Francisco City Hall.

Purpose of the committee is to urge passage of a $4½ million bond issue to build a new public safety complex composed of a central firehouse, police station and communications center, on a site on Grand and Chestnut Avenues.

Schuette lists $5,259 as spent.

Individual contributions ranged up to $300 apiece. Top donors were builder R. Diodati and Wildberg Bros.

Three contributors gave $250 apiece — Norpen Development Co., Gallo Sales and Herman Safes. Four donors gave $200 apiece — Lowrie Paving Co., Poletti Realty, McDonald's Clothing and the South San Francisco Police Officers Assn.

Of the $100 donors, seven are top city officials. They are Mayor Terri Mirri, Councilmen Frank Mammini, Leo Padreddi and Richard Battaglia; City Manager Ed Alario; Fire Chief Lawrence Toellner and Police Chief Sal Rosano.

Other $100 donors include F. D. Minuccianni (insurance), Holiday Inn, a Mr. Callan of Callan Realty in Daly City, George Uccelli of Oak Farm Inc. (firm which formerly had an interest in proposed site), Bankamerica Corp., Zellerbach Paper Co., William Volker Co. (carpets), and Steven Lamp.

In addition, Kaufman Estate and Crocker Bank were listed as donors of office space, valued at $289 for two months.

Among expenditures were $1,338 for outdoor advertising and $1 454 for direct mail. Largest sums of money were spent with Rice Printing, $1,406, and the Wilmes Co., $2,196.

$26.8 Million College Budget

A 1974-75 budget totalling just under $26.8 million was presented last Wednesday to the trustees of the San Mateo Community College District.

In offering the preliminary document to the board members for the first time, Chancellor Glenn Smith urged the trustees to raise the tax rate to the maximum level possible, about 77 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

If approved in this form later this coming summer, this budget would raise the current tax rate by almost 5 cents.

Smith stated that utilization of the district's full taxing authority will be necessary for the first time in years because:

Existing programs and services, as well as some new ones, must be maintained.

Healthy reserve levels, which can be used as levers against inflation in the near future if necessary, should be protected.

Provisions to safeguard the district from possible insufficiencies in state funds ought to be made.

The last two items in Smith's list relate, in part, to reserves.

In the proposed budget, the ending balance, along with a set of reserves, totals almost $5.2 million, roughly 19 per cent of the total package.

The largest of all the reserves is over $2.4 million. It is called Appropriation for Contingencies. Smith said that, in all likelihood, that money will be used to provide salary increases for district employees.

Smith and the xoard members got a tashe of what salary negotiations will be like this summer Wednesday as well.

As submitted by the faculties of the district's three schools, the teachers' pay proposal, which includes salaries and fringe benefits, would amount to a 27 per cent increase if approved by the trustees.

The dollars needed to fund that boost total over $3.2 million.

Smith stated that full use of the tax rate is necessary this year because coming years appear to be be bleak.

This is the last budget in which the board can set a tax rate on its own. After 74-75, community college districts in California will feel the full impact of SB 6, a piece of state legislation which affects them much like the way SB 90 affects K-12 institutions.

In other words, increases in assessed valuation will have little effect on a district's ability to increase its revenues after 74-75. The state will mandate local revenues per unit of full-time students in the future.

Alluding to that, Trustee Francis Pearson warned that, "Inflation could eat us up in the future."

He pointed out that in 1973-74 the district ate into its reserves by about $850,000 in order to cope with inflation.

That trend is expected to continue.

Pearson offered that, soon, the board will need to re-assess the district's priorities with eye toward making economies.

Local K-12 districts are already being forced to re-examine their operations in thelight of state law.

the light other action Wednesday, the board:

Haggled over physical education requirements in the district but reached no conclusions. The matter has again been continued to a future meeting.

Approved additional rented office space for the district offices on Pioneer Court in San Mateo.

Auto Theft Ring Said Broken

Daly City police say they have cleared more than 25 car thefts that have occurred in the community in the past three months following the arrest recently of three youths.

The boys — all juveniles — were arrested by officer James Richardson after he spotted them allegedly stealing a car from the Daly City Chrysler-Plymouth Company lot on Mission Street about 9:30 p.m. May 21.

Subsequent investigation by police uncovered a car theft ring involving at least a dozen young boys from the Hunters Point area of San Francisco, Daly City and Pacifica, according to Acting Police Chief David Hanesn.

"The arrest of these boys and the information thus far gathered has cleared more than 25 car thefts in the Daly City and Colma areas," Hansen said.

In each case, the theft has been from a car dealer.

The cars were first raced, stripped, wrecked and sometimes set afire by the youths, police said.

"In many cases the vehicles were sold for parts in the Hunters Point area," Hansen said.

Musical Bouquet Planned

A musical bouquet of secular and patriotic music will be presented for public enjoyment June 9 at 2:30 p.m. in the West Orange Library, 840 West Orange Avenue, South San Francisco, by the South San Francisco Choraliers.

The Choraliers, under the direction of Roy Marlow, was organized in 1968 and is co-sponsored by the South San Francisco Parks and Recreation department.

Featured soloists will be Eileen Lester and Kathy Rodillas, sopranos, Diane Cortopassi, alto, and Francis Garcia, tenor.

GRADUATED

County Issues On Ballot

In addition to balloting on a multitude of candidates and nine state propositions in the June 4 primary election, San Mateo County voters will be deciding two county propositions placed on the ballot by the Board of Supervisors.

Proposition B is a proposal to amend the County Charter to remove the 10-cent per mile maximum which can be paid county employes for use of their private automobiles on county business.

The 10-cent restriction has been in effect since the charter was adopted by the electorate in 1932

It simply is not practical in this day and age, County Manager M. D. Tarshes stated in recommending that the proposal to remove the restriction be approved.

It has been the practice to encourage employe use of private cars on county business, Tarshes said, to reduce the number of county cars required and the cost involved.

However, he said, it has become increasingly difficult to accomplish this because of substantial increases in automobile operating costs.

If approved, the amendment would provide that the Board of Supervisors "shall fix maximum reimbursement for transportation expenses incurred by persons in the service of the county."

No argument was submitted against the proposal, County Clerk-Recorder Marvin Church reports.

The second countywide proposal, Proposition C, is a companion measure to State Proposition 5 on the ballot.

If approved, the county proposition would provide for use of state motor vehicle fuel tax revenue for public mass transit purposes.

However, the local measure is dependent on passage of the state measure, which would permit use of up to 25 per cent of county gasoline tax revenue for public mass transit, provided that the individual counties also approve such use.

Favoring the local measure are the Board of Supervisors, the San Mateo County Development Association, the County Council of League of Women Voters and the Environmental Quality Coordinating Council.

No arguments were submitted against the proposition.

Franklin Roosevelt P-TA Slates Spring Carnival

Franklin D. Roosevelt P-TA is laying in supplies of popcorn, drinks, goldfish and many other things in anticipation of their Spring carnival to be held on May 31 in the school multi use room.

Hours of the carnival will be from 2 p.m. until 7 p.m. according to chairwoman Mrs. Pat Cunningham.

Tickets will be sold there for the many games and refreshments.

The popular jail booth will once again be set up as will the live goldfish booth.

Everyone is invited to attend and with the availability of pizza, hot dogs, cotton candy, etc., there will be no need to go home for dinner!

ATTACK CARRIER

navy Seaman Kim E. Griggs, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Griggs of 2200 Village Court, Belmont, left Alameda aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Ranger. He is enroute to join the U.S. Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific.

In the Air for Mental Health

By MICHELLE CARTER

Local stargazers are getting a double feature this week.

In addition to the usual array of sparkling, glittering firmaments in the heavens, the message "May is Mental Health Month. Support your local units." is gliding around the Bay Area skies spelled out in 7,000 winking, blinking lights on the side of the Goodyear blimp Columbia.

As still another gesture of good will to the San Mateo Mental Health Association, the Goodyear company offered to take a gondola-full of reporters and representatives on a blimp ride around the Bay last week.

A gondola-full sounds like it could accommodate the entire northern California press corps, judging by the size of the blimp, but in truth the passenger compartment of the famous lighter-than-airship can take only six persons and the pilot.

So six of us set out to satisfy our childhood whims with a 30-minute overview of the East Bay from 1,500 feet. We gathered apprehensively in the Oakland Airport terminal and were bused to the "launching pad" in the middle of a field of yellow wild flowers somewhere at the edge of the Bay.

Launching pad, of course, is the supreme euphemism. The only permanent physical apparatus is a flag-pole which our Goodyear representative referred to as the "dock." But we were soon to find out that the Columbia docks only at night; for simple embarking and debarking of passengers, 12 strong men hold onto her very tightly.

The 192 foot balloon lumbers out of the sky and into the muscular arms of her handlers looking very much like a refugee from the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade. Small sandbags are hung on the bottom of the gondola, and a portable ladder much like the one that fits over the side of a motorboat is snapped into the doorway. While passengers scramble out, the men are desperately trying to hold the airship steady against the buffeting Bay winds.

Those same winds kept the Columbia on the ground for most of her first week in the Bay Area. As first stop on her summer tour of the western United States, Oakland Airport and its air traffic controllers are used to having the mammoth visitor around once a year.

Once we're inside Pilot Nick Nicolary prepares for take off. Basically that means that he wheels the nose of the Columbia up 45 degrees and the men on the ground pull down hard once and then let go.

The horizontal plane of the airship (which is filled with helium, not hydrogen) is maintained with a wheel much like a wheelchair wheel situated under the right arm of the pilot: Forward noses her down; backward raises her up.

Right and left maneuvers are handled with two enormous pedals. The usual aircraft dials and switches cover the front bulkhead, and Pilot Nicolary proudly points out the $60,000 worth of radio equipment and the instruments that will allow the Columbia to be airborne on instruments only.

Looking down on Oakland laid out like a city planner's map, the shadow of a snub-nosed rocket slides by in suspended animation. Hot Wheels miniatures move along the streets with no visible means of locomotion, and palm trees dot the landscape like perfect green chrysanthemums.

At the center of our swoop around the East Bay was the Oakland Coliseum looking very much like a gargantuan cup and saucer.

Back on the ground (or hovering above it) again, the wind strains against the grip of the handlers.

The publicity boast for Mental Health Month is over and six more eager passengers wait in the flower field.

Our trip was the last for the day for Pilot Nicolary who hitched a ride back to the terminal with us. Someone asked how he managed to land such an interesting job.

"I answered an ad in the Los Angeles Times."

That's one ad I'd like to have seen.

What's In A Name

Ever wondered who first called a blimp, a blimp?

Well, trivia lovers, here's the real dope, thanks to the news bureau of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio.

The credit goes to Lt. A. D. Cunningham of the Royal Navy Air Service who was charged with inspecting airships in December, 1915.

"During the inspection, Cunningham broke the solemnity of the occasion by playfully flipping his thumb at the gasbag. He was rewarded with an odd noise that echoed off the taut fabric."

The sound of course was "blimp." What else?

Tourist Executive Resigns

San Mateo County's Convention and Visitors Bureau is seeking a new executive director to replace James E. Jones, whose resignation was accepted Thursday night.

Assistant Director Alex Fletcher also resigned.

Both resignations were accepted "by mutual consent" by President Irving Amstrup on behalf of the board of directors.

The action took place during the board's meeting in which convention coordinator, Mrs. Betty Morris, was promoted to the position of assistant director.

Immediate plans were made to solicit and screen applicants. William Pocock, head of the agency's advertising and public relations service, William Pocock & Associates, was named to assist the board with administrative duties while a new director is being selected.

Jones, who has been with the convention bureau since its activation in January 1972, after splitting off from the San Mateo County Fair, said he "plans to go into writing again.

"I love my typewriter," he said, "but I haven't had time to sit down and write a story since I came here."

Jones has written professionally for more than 20 years, and was active in the Society of American Travel Writers, and in developing articles for magazines and books.

He said he is proud of the convention bureau's successes since he has been its head.

"Our first year, 1972, there were 40,000 convention delegates to San Mateo county. In 1973, there were about 79,000. Even with the Airport Plaza closed, we will push close to 100,000 this year.

"Business is good, and all the hotel rooms in the county are full."

Jones said the "various city members of the board are wonderful people, and give a lot of their time to this job.

Newspaper Space Isn't Crowded With 30-Second Spots

There's plenty of room here in this white space for any advertiser to tell any story. He can have as much room as he needs and can be sure the reader is looking only at his ad while at this location in the newspaper. That's important when you realize the trend in television is to "bombard" viewers with as many short messages as possible in a given length of time. How many 30-second spots do you suppose they ultimately will cram into a station break? How many ideas do you think a viewer can absorb after watching six or eight spots all strung together? How much white space would you like surrounding your next newspaper ad?

Enough space to tell your whole story.

Officer Finds House Robbed

South San Francisco Police Officer Dan Cabrera was a little cautious at one residence in his door-to-door trek this weekend.

Cabrera, like other South San Francisco public safety personnel, was urging passage of Proposition G (for a new police-fire facility) on that city's ballot.

Coming up to Apartment 1, at 639 Miller Ave., with his 6-year-old daughter, Michelle in tow, Cabrera noticed the door slightly ajar, and keen police eye told him someone had used vice grips on the door knob.

Townhouse Plans Set

The South San Francisco Planning Dept. is processing plans for a 71-unit townhouse project, valued at $1,320,390, according to Chief Building Inspector Roy Ghilardi.

The project is Braewood 2, being built in Westborough by the Braewood Development Corp. of Van Nuys. The project will take up three full blocks bordered by Meath, Duhallow and Kilkonway drives.

There are a total of 24 permits being issued for 24 separate buildings, containing one to seven living units apiece, or one to six garages apiece.

Educator Honored

Millbrae School Superintendent Dr. Edward J. Meuhlhausen has been named to share in a University of San Francisco award presented in the name of a former San Mateo County Superintendent of Schools.

Dr. Meuhlhausen will share the Roy W. Cloud award of USF's School of Education, with Richmond School Superintendent Samuel J. Teese.

The award was presented Thursday by USF's Dean Edward J. Griffin. The 14th annual award was given in memory of Roy Walter Cloud, San Mateo County superintendent of schools from 1907 to 1925, superintendent of Redwood City schools from 1925 to 1927, and author of a San Mateo County history published that year.
